RATIONING OF
VARIED ITEMS
LOOMS IN U. S.

General Program for Entire Country Seen By Henderson

SPECIFIC ARTICLES ARE NOT ANNOUNCED

Several Are In "Two of Basic Cost of Living Groups"

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 29.—The house appropriations committee and Price Administrator Leon Henderson predicted today that heavy demands on two groups of basic cost of living items would mean "a general rationing program for the entire country" before the end of the year.

"It would be folly to name any specific items which are likely to be rationed," the committee said in a report on a $1,830,487,615 defense appropriation bill. "To do so would cause immediate runs on existing stocks and bring about rationing earlier than ordinarily would be necessary."

15 Major Groups Mentioned
Henderson told the committee during hearings on the bill that there would be a need for rationing of 15 major groups of items and the committee said that several were in "two of the basic cost of living groups which means" a general rationing program.

Henderson, expressing belief there was "very real danger" that "our present price ceiling will not hold," told the committee:

"What we will be able to do rests on the tax bill, and not only the amount of it but the nature of it; how much is withdrawn from current spendable income; it depends on the amount of savings; it depends on the degree to which wages are stabilized; and it depends on the course of farm prices, and it depends upon the rate at which the war effort proceeds."

Hold Costs Down
But he expressed belief that the Office of Price Administration "can keep the cost of living items down to about" a 6 to 10 per cent increase over previous levels.

Henderson repeated previous statements that prices could not be stabilized without "a stiff tax policy and stabilization of farm prices and wages."

He estimated that price restriction by OPA already had saved $6,000,000,000 in the cost of the war program and that $62,000,000,000 more would be saved in the next 20 months, based on the prospective size of that work.

A Calling Card for Berlin

Pretty Katherine Sloan sits on a 2,000 pound bomb in New York City and signs her name on it. She was the first of many persons who will be allowed to autograph the bomb for special delivery to the Axis. Purchasers of war bonds and signers of pledges will be given a pen dipped in special ink to write their names on the missile.

Planes Plan
'Air Raid'
Here

Airplanes will thunder across the city at noon Wednesday. "Bombs" will be dropped into the streets below. Sirens and factory whistles will scream.

It will not really be an air raid (though it could be), but a mission of education and inspiration, signalling the beginning of the "Retailers for Victory" campaign, in which Salem people will be asked to buy War Bonds and Stamps.

The demonstration is scheduled for noon Wednesday. Airplanes will be over the city from Miller field and from Alliance. They will drop leaflets calling on Salem people to buy more and more War Bonds and Stamps—to the limit of their ability—to provide the money for planes, tanks, guns and ammunition, not only to bar aggressors from America but to track them down in their own lairs.

From noon until 12:15 p. m. Wednesday, Salem merchants will sell nothing but War Stamps and will aid those who want to buy bonds. No merchandise at all will be handled, but they'll have a plentiful supply of Stamps.

As an additional means of calling attention to the campaign the retailers will have appropriately decorated windows, stressing the "all out for victory" theme.

SIX ARE ARRESTED
BY HIGHWAY PATROL

At least six motorists were arrested by Salem state highway patrolmen over the weekend. War-fighter Smith of East Liverpool, charged with driving a car while intoxicated, was fined $50 and costs in the mayor's court at Wellsville.

William J. Fisher, 21, of 640 Columbia st., arrested on a second offense speeding charge, was fined $35 and costs in Mayor Hugh Dickson's court at Canfield.

George Chichak, 30, of Youngstown, arrested on a reckless driving count, was fined $255 and costs at Canfield.

Frank Lehnert, 26, of Pittsburgh, charged with reckless driving, was fined $15 and costs here by Mayor R. R. Johnson.

Donald Duffy, 18, of East Liverpool, charged with a stop sign violation, drew a fine of $5 and costs at Lebanon.

Albert Tescher, 41, of R. D. 2, Beloit, also charged with a stop sign violation, was fined $10 and costs by Mayor L. A. Bandy at Sebring.

Wellsville Homecoming
To Get Under Way Today

WELLSVILLE, June 29.—Preparations were made today for many visitors for this city's fourth annual homecoming celebration, which will open tonight with a street fair.

Highlight of the week's program will be a parade Saturday night in which 50 Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia fire departments, bands, drum and bugle corps and marching units will compete for cash awards.

Industry, Agriculture, Government Service Hit, Says Committee

ARMY OF 7-MILLION IS SEEN NEXT YEAR

11 Million More Needed In Industry; 2 1/2 In Agriculture

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The house appropriations committee warned the nation today that it faces "a critical shortage of manpower in industry, agriculture and the government service which will reach a peak in approximately October of this year."

This can be met, the committee said in its report on a $1,810,487,615 defense appropriation bill, by training workers within and out of industry and by transferring workers from non-essential to essential industries.

"The possibility of 4,500,000 men in the army by the end of 1942, and 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 men in 1943," the committee said, coupled with a shifting of workers from farms and non-essential work to industry and the necessity of adequate farm labor to supply the food needs of the United Nations, require careful management of our manpower resources."

The committee estimated a need for an additional 11,000,000 workers in industry and 2,500,000 on the farms, and said from 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 of these probably could be recruited from peacetime industry, 1,000,000 from professional and other sources, 1,500,000 from the unemployed, and 2,000,000 from among "housewives, youths and retired workers."

To enable the war manpower commission to recruit, train and place this vast army of new workers, the committee approved an appropriation of $3,114,000 for the agency headed by Paul V. McNutt.

FIRE VOLUNTEERS
COMPLETE COURSE

Civilian Defense Arm Bands To Be Presented To Group July 9

Office of Civilian Defense arm bands will be presented to members of the city's auxiliary fire force when the volunteers complete their civilian defense schooling at a meeting in the High school building Thursday night, July 9.

Fire Chief Vincent Malloy said today that the arm bands had been ordered and probably would be received in time for the presentation that night.

The volunteer firemen, numbering about 70, started their training April 28 and, to date, have completed 10 hours of fire instruction, five hours of general fire routine, five hours of driver work and 10 hours of first aid instruction.

They will complete the course July 9 with a two-hour instruction on gas and how to combat it.

Malloy announced that for the benefit of some members of the auxiliary fire fighting unit who were unable to finish the first aid course, an afternoon class will be organized. These men, some of them working night shifts in factories, are urged to contact the chief as soon as possible to arrange to complete the course, a vital part of the training.

Election Red Tape Slashed
So That Soldiers May Vote

All Service Men Will Have to Do Is Ask for Ballot, Mark It and Send It to Home Board

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 29.—Secretary of State John E. Sweeney slashed red tape today so that Ohio soldiers in training camps throughout the United States and in some foreign fighting.

Sweeney said that distances would make it impossible for the state to mail and receive ballots from Ohioans in some foreign countries but that his new voting principle was designed to apply anywhere.

"Soldiers of a modern army deserve modern service," Sweeney declared in announcing that the only steps necessary this fall for casting ballots by members of the armed forces would be mailing of an application card by each to his own board of elections, sending of ballots to the men, and return of the ballots to the election boards.

Heretofore five steps have been required: 1. Any non-registered man in a registration district had to ask for a registration form 2, upon its receipt, he had to fill it out, have it notarized, and return it to his election board 3, he had to apply for a formal application for an absentee voter's ballot; 4, the application, upon receipt, had to be filled out, notarized and returned; 5, if the ballot arrived in time, the soldier, sailor or marine cast his vote and returned it.

The secretary of state said every effort would be made to place the application cards in the hands of members of the armed forces in camps and forts. Cards also will be made available to their relatives for mailing to soldiers, sailors and marines.

Two Doughboys Go for a Ride—Egyptian Style

This method of transportation may not be as fast as a jeep but it gets you there just the same, so Sergeants Dashiell, of Washington, and R. G. Mott, of Boston, are satisfied with the camel ride. Sight-seeing on a camel's bumpy back has become a favorite form of recreation with American soldiers.

Several Contacts and Associates Taken; More Arrests Promised

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 29.—Seizure of "several contacts and associates" of the band of eight Nazi spy-saboteurs landed by U-boats on the east coast was announced last night by the FBI, which promised more arrests within a few days.

New developments in the startling case of the eight German agents submarine-borne to Long Island and Florida beaches with explosives intended to wreck vital American industries included the discovery of an additional cache of $20,000, increasing the total of "pay-off money" carried by the saboteurs to $170,000.

Names Not Announced

Neither the number nor the names of the persons arrested as aides of the invading saboteurs were disclosed by Earl J. Connelley, in announcing the new roundup 24 hours after FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover had revealed the capture of the agents bent on a two-year campaign of destruction against the American war effort.

Some arrests of the suspected accomplices were made in Chicago, and some here. Those here were believed to have been made from among a group of German people living on Long Island not far from the deserted beach at Amagansett, where the first group of four Nazi terrorists landed June 13.

Hoover gave the names of those in this group as George John Dasch, 39, leader; Ernest Peter Burger, 36, who in 1931 was a private in the Michigan National Guard; Heinrich Harm Heinke, 35, Malloy Quirin, 34.

They came ashore in a rubber boat with money and explosives, and with lists of key railroad centers, bridges and war plants which Hoover said they planned to blow up. They also were equipped with forged selective service and social security cards, Hoover said.

RUBBER CAMPAIGN
EXTENDED BY FDR
FOR 10 MORE DAYS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 29.—President Roosevelt extended the rubber collection drive today for an additional ten days because collections through Saturday night had brought in disappointing total of 219,000 tons.

Originally scheduled to have ended at midnight tomorrow, the campaign now will continue through July 10.

The continuation was ordered upon the recommendation of Secretary Ickes, in his capacity as petroleum coordinator, and William R. Boyd, Jr., chairman of the petroleum industry war council.

Speaking for Mr. Roosevelt, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early told reporters: "In the face of the very serious needs for rubber, the total collections as reported today are disappointing. Hence the continuation of the drive."

THREE INJURED IN
WEEKEND TRAFFIC

Highway Patrolmen Investigate Four District Accidents

Three persons suffered injuries in four traffic accidents which Salem state highway patrolmen investigated during the weekend.

Eldon Maris, 25, or 532 E. Second st., and Willard J. Thomas of R. D. 1, Beloit, were cut and bruised when their automobiles collided at the intersection of the Goshen Center and Duck Creek road in Mahoning county early Sunday morning.

Brought to Salem city hospital, Maris was found to have suffered a lacerated left knee, a cut over his left eye and body bruises. Thomas suffered a contusion of the right knee, abrasions of the left elbow and temple and lacerated left ear.

Joseph Vild, 20, of 999 Prospect st., received a lacerated hand when his car was sideswiped by another machine on the Damascus road west of Salem, at 4:15 a. m. Sunday. Two passengers in his car escaped injury, the patrol reported.

When Isabelle Beck, 27, of 677 Fair ave., slowed down on the Damascus road for traffic ahead her car was struck by another driven by Robert Ward, 18, of 816 N. Lincoln ave. The mishap occurred at 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

Paul B. Burton, 23, of Youngstown, was uninjured when his automobile crashed through a barricade on Route 45 at Ellsworth at 9:30 p. m. yesterday, but state highway patrolmen arrested him on a charge of reckless driving. Taken before Mayor Hugh Dickson at Canfield, Burton was fined $25 and costs.

The road is closed for repairs at that point, the patrol reported. Burton, driving his car without lights, knocked the barricade aside and proceeded for a distance of two miles before being apprehended, the patrol reported.

Ohio Tire Quotas Set

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 29.—The Office of Price Administration set Ohio's July tire and tube quotas thus: 2,764 new tires for fire trucks, ambulances, doctors' cars and other emergency vehicles; 1,948 new tires for war workers' autos; 46,991 recaps and 26,282 new tubes.

JAPS' MIDWAY
LOSSES MOUNT

U. S. Reveals Correct Figures; Four Carriers Are Destroyed

(By Associated Press)
PEARL HARBOR, T. H. — June 29.—The defeat of the Japanese invasion fleet of Midway island was even worse than first reported.

The navy, waiting until it had rounded up and checked all reports, flatly wrote off as Japanese losses: the aircraft carrier Akagi, 26,900 tons; the aircraft carrier Kaga, 26,900 tons; the aircraft carrier Soryu, 10,050 tons; the aircraft carrier Kiryu, 10,050 tons; two heavy cruisers, probably the 8,500 ton Mogami and the 8,500 ton Mikuma; three destroyers and a cargo or transport vessel.

18,000 Japs Killed
Unofficial estimates placed the probable Japanese death list at 18,000 or more.

That added up to at least 10 ships sent to the bottom in the big sea-air battle earlier this month. The definite report of four carriers sunk contrasted with tentative reports on June 10 of "two and possibly three." The same reports listed only the other ship as definitely sunk, a destroyer.

The loss of 10 likewise was in sharp contrast with Japanese admissions that only carrier went down.

The navy said a fourth destroyer very probably was sunk and that considerable damage was wrought on two or three battleships, three or four other heavy cruisers, a light cruiser and four transport or cargo vessels. Another transport

6,000 TROOPS

Heavy Fighting Continues Today in Vicious Battle for Egypt

AMERICAN AIRMEN AID IN DEFENSE

Struggle, Begun at 5 P. M. Saturday, Heightening In Intensity

(By Associated Press)
CAIRO, Egypt, June 29.—Continuous and heavy fighting raged on today in a wild melee of men and machines over an ever-broadening battlefield around and southeast of Matruh, main British bastion 175 miles west of Alexandria.

(Both Berlin and Rome announced the capture of Matruh together with 6,000 British troops and there was little doubt in London that their claims were true.)

U. S. Planes Aid Defense

Many newly arrived planes, including those of the United States air corps, were thrown into the battle to help stem the Axis tide.

The desert struggle has been in progress without a break since Saturday afternoon, when an Axis armored force from the west, taking advantage of the glare of the sun in the defenders' eyes, struck at positions southwest of Matruh.

Marshal Rommel loosed the full fury of his forces against the British at 5 p. m. Saturday—his favorite hour for launching attacks to the east.

The battle then developed into fast-moving fights between tanks and mobile artillery, the latter being shifted from position to position the better to strike at opposing tanks. Mobile infantry has been used mainly to occupy points after rounding up prisoners.

Moon Lights Battlefield

A full moon permitted the fight to continue through Saturday night and last night with scarcely any waning in intensity. The great Egyptian moon, shining on the glittering sands, makes it bright enough to read a newspaper but produces curious shadow effects which pose problems for gunners and tank crews.

Today's dawn found the battle for Egypt, now in its third day, moving deeper toward the valley of the Nile with one big battle swirling in the desert southeast of Matruh. British headquarters here announced.

British and United States bombers, blasting hard and often at the advancing Axis forces, ranged over the eastward moving Axis columns all weekend, setting afire numerous fuel tanks between Salum, near the Libyan border, and Matruh.

Salem Starts Fund
To Rebuild Lidice

A movement has been started in Salem to help raise a national fund to rebuild Lidice, Czech town wiped out by the Germans, immediately after the war.

The peaceful little Czechoslovak village that lay just a mile off the main highway from Prague to Kladno is no more.

It has been physically blotted from the face of the earth by the Nazis. All male inhabitants of Lidice have been shot. All women of the village have been sent to Nazi concentration camps, every school, every church has been burned to the ground.

Mrs. Albin Roubal, 1003 Arch st., had three brothers in the military town of Lidice. She fears they were among the men killed by the Nazis. The grandmother of Mrs. James Sobotka of Tolerton lane lives near what was Lidice.

Members of the Czechoslovak National alliance in Salem, who have been showing their patriotism by buying War Savings bonds, some of them already owning $4,000 in bonds, hope the people of Salem will help them raise a fund to rebuild Lidice.

Martin Zasko is president of the Slovak Lutheran union, which embodies the National alliance. Contributions may be sent to him, or left at The News office.

COUNTIES DEBATE
SURFACING COSTS

Columbiana county commissioners were in Youngstown this afternoon to discuss with the Mahoning county commissioners what share each county will pay in resurfacing and rehabilitating Route 14 Washington.

The dividing line of the counties is in the middle of road, but Columbiana county officials feel they cannot pay an share of the cost. State engineers originally estimated the 14 project would cost $28,400 have reduced that to $22,500.

GOOD WORK, MAYOR

For the last few years people of Salem have wondered why an expensive automobile was used all the time by the police for cruising, instead of pressing the police motorcycle into use. Mayor Johnson wondered about it, too, and he decided to do something about it. He ordered the motorcycle put into condition, the work being done in Salem, instead of out of the city as in the past. And then he ordered the police department to use it.

That was a good move for economy and efficiency in the police department. It was one of several accomplishments to the credit of the present administration since it took office six months ago. It has been working in a quiet but effective manner to give the city a decent administration and results already are quite noticeable. The mayor has been responsible for re-establishing confidence of the public in city government. It's a wholesome change that everyone has welcomed.

HELPING THE CAUSE

Initiative on the part of representatives of the petroleum industry in Salem, and their continued cooperation throughout the campaign, have been largely responsible for the success of the scrap rubber collection to date. Thousands of pounds of old rubber had been deposited at oil and gasoline filling stations throughout the city before the salvage committee's drive was actually under way. Bulk stations aided in the collection and disposition of the rubber and the petroleum industry will donate to war purposes the money received from its sale.

The scrap rubber drive has been augmented by the efforts of school children, who have done good work as they did in the waste paper campaign several weeks ago. The campaign continues another day, and every piece of old rubber that you can dig up will be another important contribution to the war effort.

STEPS TOWARD TOTAL MOBILIZATION

Registration of all young men down to 18 will complete the national inventory of manpower started with registration of men between the ages of 21 and 36 on Oct. 16, 1940. The government now has available all the information needed to effect a total mobilization of its fighting strength. The work begun in peacetime and well along when war began has been finished.

It has appeared sometimes in the midst of intense discussions over the methods employed to do this that greater difficulties were encountered than actually have been present. On the whole, the total mobilization of manpower has been a tribute to the ability of a self-governed people to govern themselves in a crisis. In the last analysis, all the inequalities that have occurred are submerged in the gigantic proportions of the job that has been done. Even so, it has been only part of a still greater job—the mobilization of all the nation's resources to war.

When time is borrowed from the things still to be done to remember the things that have been done no one can evade a feeling of accomplishment. In less than two years after the people through congress manifested their will to organize to meet the threat of aggression, the United States has been transformed from a negligible military power to one of the major powers; its potentialities have been realized. In a few more months, a year at the most American strength will become the deciding factor in the war.

GERMANY'S PYRRHIC VICTORIES

Unmistakable evidence of a major campaign in progress in the Kharkov region is accompanied by significant evidence of something that may be more important than Germany's success in gaining ground.

A year ago when the invasion of Russia was getting under way it was clear that destruction of the Russian army, rather than occupation of Russian territory, was the primary objective. This, it was predicted, would be difficult because of Russia's vast spaces, which provided plenty of room for retreat. The difficulty was compounded as the war progressed by disclosure of Russian preparations to meet just such a condition by development of industrial resources behind the Ural mountains.

It is an uncontroverted fact that Germany has paid a terrific price so far for its attempts to destroy the Russian army. There is no reason to doubt that this year, with Germany no longer capitalizing on surprise, the price is as great or greater than it was in the campaign of 1941. Adolf Hitler's hordes once more are gaining ground, but they have not destroyed the Russian army. On the contrary, they are confronted with the possibility of their own destruction as a major land power.

The Russians still can retreat. They still can stand their losses, however great they may be, with less possibility of being exhausted in a war of attrition than the Germans. The ground they are gaining at a price which even they must suspect is exorbitant—a series of Pyrrhic victories—may prove to be their undoing. Yet, unless they can destroy the Russian army, they dare not stop.

DARK NEWS FOR ALLIES

By DEWITT MacKENZIE, World Wide War Analyst
Things apparently weren't going well for the British in the battle for Egypt as this great engagement, upon which so much Allied hope depends, moved into its third day.

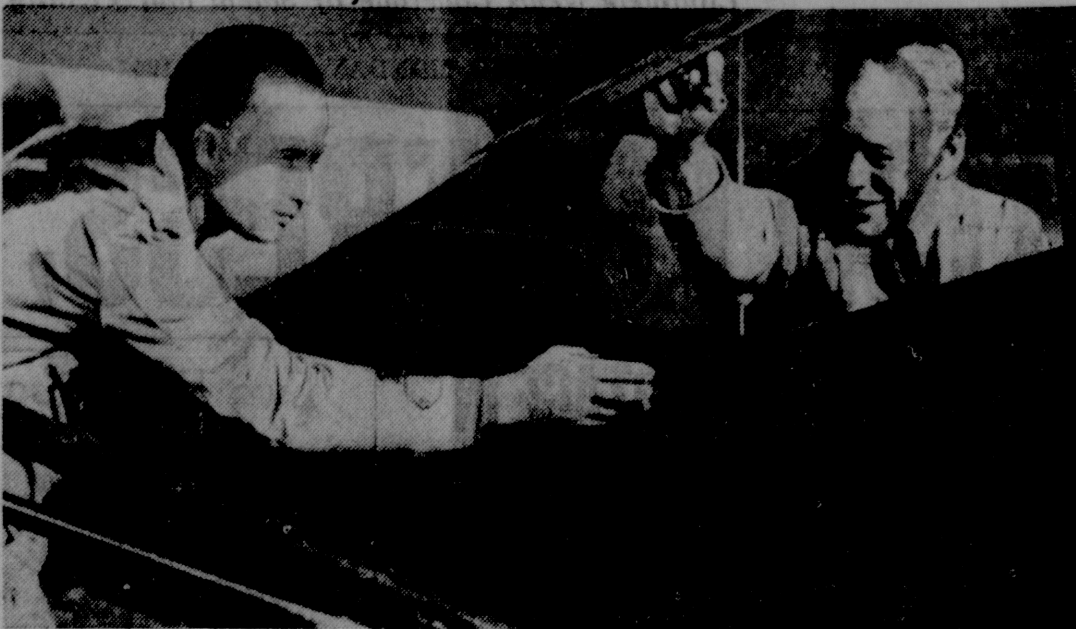

Both Berlin and Rome claimed Axis forces had occupied Matruh, the coastal stronghold to which the British right wing was anchored. Simultaneously a London military commentator said there was some reason for thinking that the British had withdrawn all troops from the Matruh area.

There was no official confirmation of the Matruh claim, but should it prove to be true it would mean that the British situation had become exceedingly grave.

It would make most precarious the position of the great naval, air and military base at Alexandria, 90 miles away. And should Alexandria succumb it would be a catastrophe.

British headquarters in Cairo did announce that the conflict had penetrated deeper into this strategic zone—meaning, of course, that Nazi Field Marshal Rommel had fought his way farther forward. Word that the battle had spread to the southeast of Matruh made it clear that he was trying to turn the British southern flank and that he might be making progress.

HEART DISEASE ONE OF MOST PREVALENT

Americans Living Longer, Says Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

HEART DISEASE is becoming one of the three or four most prevalent American diseases. This is partly due to the fact that Americans now live longer—long enough to get heart disease—and also partly due to the perfection of our means of diagnosis in recognizing the different forms; few cases get missed, so they all get in the statistics.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

In fact the oldest and still one of the best methods of objective diagnosis, the use of the stethoscope, was developed in connection with its use in recognizing heart disease. The difference between objective diagnosis and subjective diagnosis is that in subjective diagnosis the patients tell you what's the matter; you can neither prove nor disprove it. If a patient says, "I have a headache," there is no way on earth for you to tell whether that is true or not.

Objective Diagnosis

In objective diagnosis the physician tells the patient. If a patient has a heart murmur, the stethoscope will reveal it and the doctor is on safe and certain ground.

Another indispensable method of examining the heart in an objective way is the X-ray. It will tell the size of the heart, any bulges in the heart or great vessels. It tells things that the stethoscope cannot tell because there are certain limitations to the stethoscope. When condition of the heart is deep under layers of lung tissue, the stethoscope cannot bring it to the examining ear. I saw a patient the other day who showed great dilatation of the heart and great vessels on the X-ray, whereas three very competent physicians had just pronounced the heart and chest entirely normal.

Blood Pressure Apparatus
Still another method of examining the heart is the blood pressure apparatus, which tells the condition not only of the heart but of the entire arterial system.

The last of the great objective methods of examining the heart is what is known as the electrocardiograph. This is a very delicate electric galvanometer which is able to record differences in electrical potentialities when a muscle contracts. The heart, being a muscle, makes a record on the electrocardiogram, which reveals the working of its muscular contractions.

By these methods, the examiner can tell what is the matter with a heart often without even asking the patient a question. The heart makes certain sounds during its contractions and relaxations and these are transmitted by the stethoscope. There are certain normal sounds and there are a number of abnormal sounds.

With the X-ray the examiner can tell the exact size of the heart, its position in the chest and whether or not it has any weakness in its walls. The blood pressure apparatus tells the examiner how much work the heart has to do and how much work it is doing.

The electrocardiograph shows whether the contraction wave of the heart passes over the right pathways, whether it does so in the normal time and whether there are any interruptions or irregularities in the contraction wave. By these various means the examiner has an objective record of the heart in action.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

We turned from the valley floor, took a road that was hardly more than a trail, and climbed to the bluff above.

Lance pulled his car over to a level spot, turned off his motor, set his brakes and dropped his head on his arms over the steering wheel.

I slipped my arms around him and put my head close to his.... How long we sat there, silently, I do not know. The first streaks of dawn began to show over the tops of the oak trees behind us. The sound of the surf pounded in our ears. The breeze freshened and the smell of salt spray was in our nostrils. In the trees the birds scolded and twittered.

After a while, Lance lifted his head and I could see his face. It was haggard and gray, unshaven and smudged. He ran a grimy hand through his wind-blown hair—somewhere, miles back along the highway, his hat had gone—and there was something tragic and desperate in his voice.

"I may not have saved them all," he said. "But I did the best I could."

"I hear something!" I said. "Sounds like a truck coming—or a lot of trucks."

Far away came a rumbling, roaring, grinding sound. It was like the rolling of giant boulders, one against the other. The sound seemed to come down the valley like a great stream—to spread out when it reached the mouth of the canyon.

"That's it!" Lance said. He looked at his watch again. "The dam held it longer than I thought it would. It's five o'clock."

Now the first moving wall of noise was followed by other sounds. Frightened deer fluttered from the bushes in the canyon and scampered up the trail to higher ground, their delicate hoofs lifted faintly, their wide eyes started as they passed us.

A furtive bobbed slunk up the trail and hid in the brush. Rabbits and quail—all the frightened wild things of the canyon—began to scamper and flutter from their lairs to seek the safety of the hills on either side.

"Look!" Lance pointed to the floor of the canyon—a tiny trickle of water was all there was to the stream, winding through sand. But now that trickle widened, deepened and became a river, foamy, gray, and angry....

The noise increased. It deafened us. The giant boulders rubbing together made a furious, grinding sound as the surging stream came down the valley, a wall of mad-dened water.

Rugged sycamores, uprooted and drifting wildly, bobbed from side to side of the moving wall. We saw a little house floating past, turning and twisting on the crest of the water like a child's block thrown on a wave.

I clutched Lance's hand. He held me close in his arms as we watched the wreckage sweep down the canyon and out to the sea. The water was dark brown, riled with rapid motion, laden with the soil of the valley where it carved its course. Now the crest of the flood was upon us—the wall of water filled the valley from side to side.

"It's almost as high as the willows," I whispered. "See—it's nearly reaching their tops!"

The sound was lessening now. The flood of angry waters had reached its peak—but the muddy current still swept furiously through the valley, swirling and foaming, carrying its dreadful freight of animals and buildings.

Something white bobbed on the surface of the flood as it swept past us.

"That's the school house," Lance pointed. "Remember where we passed it?" I remembered. Remembered, too, with thanksgiving, that it was empty.

The grinding of the boulders and the raging of the waters were lessening now. The torrent still swept past us, but it was quieter. So much more quiet that I could hear other noises.

"Don't you hear somebody calling?" I asked.

We strained our ears to hear. A voice—more like a scream than a call—came from the clump of willows. It rang out again.

"Then there was somebody there?" I looked at Lance in horror.

"There was no house in that clump of trees! I'll swear to it," Lance was certain. "But listen—there it is again."

We left our car and crept as close as we dared to the brink of the steep bluff. "Don't go too near the edge," Lance cautioned. "The water is eating away at the base."

Again and again it rang out—it was like a soul in agony—that terrible cry from the willow trees.

I was shivering. Not from the cold, although the morning was chilly and the night had been long. But from the reaction of all we had gone through. From sheer horror!

"There is nothing we can do," Lance said. "Let's go."

"I can't leave," I stood like someone fascinated. "I have to stay till the flood is over."

Almost as rapidly as it had come the water was now subsiding. As far as we could see in the bright light of the rising sun the valley was swept clean of trees and shrubs. The path of the water was scoured and bare. Only the scattered debris of trees and rocks, wrecked buildings and driftwood, pinned on the jagged points of the rocky bed of the stream, remained.

I couldn't keep my eyes from the clump of willow trees. As the light increased, we could see more clearly a paler mass among the darker trunks of the trees. These had not caught the full impact of the flood waters. Only the backwater rising as the flood swept by, submerged the trees almost to their tops.

Now this backwater was dropping as fast almost as it had risen. The tops of the willows were visible again. Now their branches. Now the white form of something square and bulky, trapped in the center of the little clump.

"There is something there," I pointed to the trees. "That's where the cries came from."

"After the water drops a little more I can cross and see what it is," Lance said. "But I know that there's no house in those trees. Never has been and there wasn't one there a few days ago when I passed here."

A few stray pieces of driftwood, some scattered trees, helpless and uprooted, came floating down on the last aftermath of the flood waters. The sound of the surf again filled our ears—and was soothing after the awful grinding of the flood.

"I think I can make it now—" Lance ventured. "The stream is narrow enough to ford again. Looks safe, anyhow." I started to go with him.

"Stay here—" he commanded. "I think it's going to be safe—but if it isn't—" He kissed me, a very hurried kiss, and then I watched him scrambling down the side of the bluff, picking his way cautiously among the scattered boulders.

I saw him go into the willows—after a while he came back. He picked his way cautiously through the rocks and up the side of the cliff. His face was grim.

"It was a trailer—" he said. "Harry and Florabelle are inside it!"

"Then—in spite of everything—you still believe it was mere chance that led Harry Craven to park his trailer among the willows?"

Now it was Pauline Dawson's turn to question us, her huge, dark eyes luminous with excitement as she swept a penetrating glance from one to another if the group before the fire in the living room of Castaway.

"Sure! Chance," Sheriff Allen said. "Destiny," Martha offered. "Retribution," was Lance's suggestion. I didn't speak. I just sat on the floor, my head against his knee, his hand stroking my tumbled hair.

"Aren't you convinced, yet?" Pauline leaned forward in her arm chair, her voice quivering with intensity. "There is no chance. It was written, too, that I should help bring their destruction to pass. I tell you it was I who sent Florabelle and Harry to their doom as surely as if I had driven their car."

"Tell us about it, Pauline," Lance counseled gently, "and let's leave out the stars."

"So blind! So blind!" she rested her head wearily back against her pillow. "As if one could leave out the stars! It was through the stars I was able to know what was going on. Without their aid I could not have helped bring two wrong-doers to their fate!"

"Let's hear what happened," urged Sheriff Allen.

Pauline directed her next words to me. "What first made anyone think Florabelle was connected with any crime?"

"The clinical thermometer," I said, quickly.

"What first made you think she and Harry were connected?" the woman went on. Again I answered.

"Finding the photograph with Harry's face cut out."

"And you call that chance?" Pauline shook her head. "I saved that mutilated photograph, put it where you or Martha must find it. If it had not been for me, Sheriff Allen, you would never have noticed those broken slivers of glass on the floor of the garage that first led to Florabelle.... And you call it chance!"

(To be concluded)

U. S. Navy Patrol Ship Sunk in Atlantic

Two U. S. anti-submarine patrol ships, the service tug Gannet, above, and the YP-389, a converted fishing craft, have been sunk in the Atlantic, according to a Navy announcement. Loss of 20 lives in the sinkings was announced. The Gannet was commissioned in 1919 as a minesweeper and then was converted into a seaplane tender six years ago.

How Would You Feel Under Fire? Just Ask The Navy!

WITH THE U. S. PACIFIC FLEET — If you want a chuckle and a renewed confidence in American youth, just ask some navy men how they felt a short time ago when the bombs and shells were falling. Here are a few answers:

"I just wanted us to give those guys hell, I guess."

"I was scared, damnit! But it sure was fun."

"Those sos-and-suches! I guess I just hollered and worked."

"I didn't have time to think about it. Why?"

There was a faint and refreshing note of belligerence in most of the answers—was anyone inferring they were afraid of a fight? No one was. One thing was certain—it didn't matter one whit how they felt in so far as their performance was concerned. Their officers attested to that, and described the gun crews and others as eager, cheering, quick-firing youngsters who had a wonderful time doing the job up right.

Not Perturbed
There were few signs of actual emotion. One youth, swinging from "Sweet Adeline" to "Rock of Ages" as his guns opened up on approaching planes. He gave no other sign of perturbation.

An acting gunner from Kingsland, Ark., became so interested in an aerial dog fight he forgot to keep his hands off of the machinery. He didn't know until later a nail was ripped off.

A high-strung young artist from Los Angeles became so excited when he saw eight additional enemy planes on the horizon that he shouted, "There must be hundreds of them. They look like bees." He sounded almost jubilant.

A Dallas, Texas, boy, undergoing his baptism of fire, insisted he was "a scared bit, all right," but his gunnery officer said no one ever would have guessed it from the way he did his job.

A red-haired scout plane pilot from Blue Hill, Me., "didn't have much fun. Here I was right next to a good scrap and what could I do? Nothing. I wish I'd had a fighter plane. Heck."

The Negro mess boys were below deck in the ammunition-handling rooms, "and they worked like the devil, too," an officer said. "They appeared to have a mingling of emotions, topped by one of pride in the important part they were playing."

He told of one outburst on the part of one room boy, a handsome colored youth from Kenridge, Va., who was passing shells without a slip and listening to the loudspeaker's report on the battle.

Suddenly the speaker said, "The bombers are now right over us."

The colored boy paused a split second, raised both hands over his head, looked at the ceiling he expected to explode in his face, and shouted: "Jesus, here I comes." He went right back to work without a break.

OHIO EDISON TO USE SKIP READING PLAN

Commencing July 6, Ohio Edison company will read all residential electric meters every other month, instead of on the present monthly basis, the company announced today.

The change does not affect commercial and industrial customers but will apply to urban and rural residential meters in the Salem and Lisbon localities.

The new set-up, it was pointed out, is in line with the government program to conserve automobiles, tires and gasoline by reducing the use of such equipment and material to a minimum, as well as releasing man power for war production work.

Under the new system one-half of the meters will be read beginning in July, and the other half in August. Those read in July will be read next in September, and the August meters again in October, and so on.

While meter reading will be on a bi-monthly basis, householders will continue to receive a monthly bill as heretofore. A customer whose meter is not read in July, for example, will receive a bill for that month based on previous use. When his meter is read in August, the July payment will be deducted from the bill for the two months' use of electricity, and the deduction will be shown on the customer's bill rendered for August. Thus every customer's electric bill will automatically adjust itself every two months.

CLEVELAND MAN'S SNACK EXPENSIVE
The tasty snack that Frank Prugh, 29, of Cleveland, ordered Sunday afternoon at a Route 30 curb service station near East Liverpool, turned out to be a costly meal. He might well have financed a banquet.

Prough drove away from the roadside restaurant without paying, taking the curb service tray as well as the dishes with which he and his wife had been served their food.

Salem state highway patrolmen, notified of the incident, stopped Prugh as he neared Salem and escorted the motorist all the way back to East Liverpool, fully 23 miles.

At a hearing before Municipal Judge Frank Groeschmans in East Liverpool, the Cleveland, himself a restaurant employee, was fined $25 and costs and ordered to serve 30 days in jail. The charge: Petty larceny.

Kept His Feet Cool
LISEON, June 29.—While the sun rays were beating down unmercifully in a return engagement of summer, a small barefoot lad, scarcely old enough to walk and talk, was seen scooting along on the sidewalk on the seat of his coveralls. A bystander, amused and perplexed at the lad's mode of travel in the business district, questioned the boy and got the retort, "The sidewalk's two dang hot, how would you like to walk on it in your feet?"

LISBON, June 29. — "Tommy" was just a yellow cat, a pet in the home of the W. A. Swartz family when they lived on W. Washington st., and Lisbon was evidently his home town. When the family moved to Youngstown several weeks ago they took "Tommy" along, but he didn't like city ways, and surprised residents of his old neighborhood here when he showed up last Friday.

The cat was weak and thin from hunger, and foot-sore, when a neighbor took him in and cared for him. The Swartzs have been notified of the return of the cat and in the meantime he seems well satisfied with his new home in the old neighborhood.

Yanks Hit Bottom Of Current Spin, Drop Two To Chicago

RUFFING, BONHAM LOSE; MARSE JOE SUFFERS AILMENT

Champs' Lead Slashed To 5 1/2 Games As Bosox Break Even

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

It begins to look as if the New York Yankees, expected by many to be naming a starting pitcher for the World Series by the Fourth of July, won't even be in first place at that fast approaching stage of the campaign if they don't pull out of their current spin.

Kicked around at three stops out of four on their two-week swing to the west, the Yankees hit bottom yesterday when the Chicago White Sox mauled them twice, 6-2 and 13-1.

Not only did the sixth-place White Sox sting the champions of the world with their first double defeat of the year, but they did it at the expense of topnotch pitchers, Red Ruffing and Ernie Bonham.

As a result, the Yankee lead shrank to five and a half games. To make matters worse, Yankee Manager Joe McCarthy was put to bed with a recurrence of the internal ailment that plagued him last season and wasn't able to leave with the team last night for Philadelphia.

Ted Lyons out-pitched Ruffing in the first game, to draw even with the Yankee hurler's lifetime record of 251 triumphs. At Cleveland, the Boston Red Sox took the first game, 8-3, by scoring all their runs in the fifth inning, but the Indians took the second when Pinch-hitter Chubby Dean singled the winning run across for a 3-2 decision.

Tigers Gain Split

The Detroit Tigers also split a pair with the Philadelphia Athletics and missed a chance to climb over the Indians into third place. Hal Newhouser pitched three-hit ball in gaining a 3-2 decision for the Tigers, but Luman Harris blanked them on five hits in the afterpiece, 3-0.

Washington's Senators nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 14-13 and 7-6.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders of the National league, narrowly escaped the Yankees' fate when Joe Medwick tripled to give them a 2-1 triumph over Cincinnati in the second game after the Reds had bagged the opener, 6-3.

Seven home runs carried Pittsburgh to a double victory over New York, 8-7 and 9-3. Elbie Fletcher's four-bagger in the ninth inning decided the first game after the Giants had tied the score four times.

Tommy Hughes pitched the Philadelphia Phils to a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in 15 innings but the Cards took the second game, 3-1, behind the five-hit game of Lefty Weaver and stayed nine games behind the Dodgers.

Jim Tobin tossed a three-hitter as the Boston Braves blanked the Chicago Cubs for the second consecutive time, 3-0, but after 21 scoreless innings the Cubs rallied to win the nightcap, 5-1.

City Junior Tennis Event This Weekend

John Mulford, chairman of the Salem County club tennis committee, announced today that the Salem junior city tournament will be held at the Salem County club Saturday and Sunday. The event will be run under a handicap ruling this season in order to give the less experienced players a chance to win high honors. The tournament is open to any boy or girl under 19 years of age. Entrants do not have to be members of the County club.

The handicap system has been set as follows. A player known to be a top-notch player, playing a less experienced boy or girl, will be forced to "spare" his or her opponent two or more games and possibly two points in each game played. Such a system will give the weaker followers of the sport an opportunity to win.

Any boy or girl, under the age of 15, may place an entry in the tournament by calling John Mulford at 5634 or by contacting Loren Early at the club courts any morning this week. All entries must be in by Thursday at noon.

If eight or more teams are entered, doubles competition will be held in both boys' and girls' classes. Play is scheduled to begin Saturday morning at 8:30. The finals will get under way Sunday morning.

Hunt and Wingard Are Golf Winners

Nathan Hunt and James Wingard combined to win the two-man best ball event at the Salem Golf club yesterday.

It was match play against par, one half of handicap, individually applied, being allowed. The winners' best ball net was 66. Hunt had 77-9 and Wingard 91-17.

Two teams tied for second place with best ball net of 74. Rudy Schuster, 82-7, teamed up with Richard Berry, 102-30. Roy Hostetler had 89-10. His partner was Nat Walken.

Low gross scores of 77 were posted by Hunt and Cliff Greenstein.

BLUE SOX EDGED IN DOUBLE BILL

The Salem Blue Sox dropped both ends of their double bill with the Sebring Merchants at Centennial park yesterday, 6-4 and 5-2. The first contest found Herman "Red" Allison on the mound for the locals and he might have won his game had not his infield gone to pieces behind him.

A three-run spurge in the fourth frame did the damage and the puncheon Blue Sox were unable to touch McRea. The game was loosely played, with eight errors being charged to the two teams.

The Blue Sox collected only three hits off Keeler in the nightcap and were defeated by a 5-2 count. The visitors bunched five of their hits after two men were out in the fourth to sew up the battle, "Buster" Wukotich pitched nice ball, whiffing 10 batters and giving up only one walk but he had not hitting support.

The losses were the third and fourth for the Blue Sox since entering the Eastern Ohio loop. In other league battles yesterday, Carrollton took over the league leadership with a double win over Alliance while the East Liverpool Red Sox dropped two to the Canton Crystal Markets.

LOOP MOGULS MEET WITH LANDIS, MAY ALTER FALL SERIES

Rumor Has Series Classic Winding Up On West Coast This Year

By HAROLD CLAASEN

NEW YORK, June 29.—Will the World Series rules be revamped—even to permitting the annual classic to wind up on the Pacific coast?

Ford Frick, president of the National league, was due in Chicago today for a conference with K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, and the New Yorker's journey immediately revived talk heard in every major league dugout during the past few days.

Three changes in the rules have been proposed and all have as their objective the gathering of funds for army and navy relief and for USO.

Under plan No. 1 the series would be extended to nine games from the present seven with the service funds benefitting from the extra contests.

Plan No. 2 has the pennant winners deciding the world title in seven tilts before going on a barnstorming tour of the country.

Most revolutionary is plan No. 3 which would have the competing nine play two games in the home park of each before opening a road journey of nine to 11 games, each contest to count toward the championship.

Under that setup the deciding battle might be played in such places as Toledo, Denver or San Francisco.

In the latter cases, cities with major league ball clubs would be avoided and the wandering series taken to places having the larger and better minor league plants.

All the major chieftains of big league baseball have remained quiet.

William Harridge, president of the American league, and Landis were "out" to newsmen at Chicago last night.

At Frick's home here it was learned he was enroute to Chicago for a conference with Landis today.

This precedes, by eight days a scheduled meeting of the big three with the club owners at the major league all-star game at the Polo Grounds on July 7.

The receipts of that contest and of the game in Cleveland the following night in which the winner of the first game plays an all-star military team will provide playing equipment for soldiers and sailors.

Other scores are as follows:

J. T. Winski, Wellsburg, W. Va.	90

F. D. R.—Winnie Eighth Cousins

After much research, Conklin Mann, editor of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record, announces that President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain are eighth cousins, once removed. The chart above shows the lines of descent from John Cooke, who came to Plymouth, Mass., in the Mayflower in 1620. The British leader now is in the United States for war conferences with President Roosevelt and other United Nations' leaders.

JAPS' LOSSES AT MIDWAY MOUNTING

or cargo ship was listed as probably sunk.

That means 10 ships known sunk, two others believed sunk and between 10 and 12 damaged.

The carrier losses included the destruction of 275 Japanese plants and their crews.

Only One Got Away

An Associated Press staff man who witnessed some of the Midway battle from a cruiser reported later that the Japanese fleet included five carriers. So only one of them got away.

The United States has admitted the loss of one destroyer and damage to an aircraft carrier.

The staggering totals add up to a terrific cost paid by the Japanese for their self-styled "diversion" to permit the landing of troops in the Aleutians. The American viewpoint has been that the crushing defeat administered by army, navy and marine fliers and by submarines frustrated an invasion of the Hawaiian Islands with Midway
as the stepping stone.

Bread Bakers Compete

There will be a bread baking contest Wednesday evening at Perry grange hall. All members are urged to participate. The contest will be judged by outside judges.

Following the contest there will be a social time. The program will include a piano solo by Jerry Sias-teen; reading, Janet Whitney;
guitar selection by Donald Huston;
vocal selection and games.

SAN JOSE, Cal.—The California
Cooperative Crop Reporting service estimates this year's crop at 166,000 tons, the lowest since 1936.

SEIZE GROUP WHO AIDED NAZI SPIES

Several Contacts and Associates Taken; More Arrests Promised

Similarly equipped was the group of four which landed at Ponte
Vedra beach near Jacksonville, Fla., June 17, Hoover said, listing these as Edward John Kerling, 33, group leader; Herbert Kaup, 22;
Werner Thiel, 35, and Hermann
Neubauer, 32.

Confiscate Plans

"We have their full statements of confession," Hoover declared.
"We have all the plans they brought with them."

The plans called for the destruction of, among other objectives,
three plants of the Aluminum Company of America and indicated that the mission's main attack was to be against the light-metal industry which would have delayed America's all-important program of airplane production.

The FBI did not reveal how the dynamiters were caught.
In Washington, Attorney General
Biddle said the department of justice would handle the case
"swiftly and thoroughly," though the question of prosecution has not been settled.

Some sources pointed out that the saboteurs changed to civilian clothes after coming ashore in uniforms and said that as a result they could be classed as spies and shot.

Since two were classed by the FBI as American citizens, the laws of treason—with a possible death penalty—might apply in their cases.

Two Drivers Injured In Collision On Route 165

Two men were injured at 6:30
A. M. today when their automobiles collided on Route 165, just east of the junction of Route 14,
the state patrol reported.

Jacob George Heaton, 55, of R. D.
1, Salem, suffered an injury to his right knee and was admitted to Salem City hospital. Randall Schis-ler, 26, driver of the other car, suffered a cut lower lip and a bruised nose.

Deputy Marshal Shot

COLUMBUS, June 29.—U. S. District Attorney Ray O'Donnell said he would decide today whether to lodge a charge against a 56-year-old suspect held in the shooting of Veley E. Main, U. S. deputy marshal for the Southern Ohio district and former mayor of Delaware.
Main was wounded in the chest
Saturday night by a revolver bullet as he attempted to take the keys from the car of an intoxicated driver. Mercy hospital reported Main's condition as critical.
